JEWISH EDUCATION PROGRAM

EDU 5140 CURRICULUM AND ASSESSMENT 3 credits
This course will familiarize the student with the theoretical foundations of curriculum design and student assessment, along with the practical skills necessary to develop a coherent curriculum and varied assessments. It will focus on identifying learner-centered curricular goals for a Jewish educational domain, designing experiences that will successfully implement these goals, and devising a range of assessments to determine the extent to which the desired learning is taking place. Pre-requisite: EDU 5120: Models of Teaching.

EDU 5010 EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY AND JEWISH LEARNING 3 credits
Basic concepts in educational psychology are presented with particular attention to theory, research and practical applications for the educator. A wide range of topics related to the application of psychology to the classroom include a review of the psychology of motivation, instilling values, and the role of educators in promoting a healthy self-concept. A basic overview of the major theories of child development is provided in the context of recent research findings, Judaic perspectives, and implications for educators working in Jewish schools.

EDU 5150 EDUCATIONAL TECHNOLOGY 3 credits
This course will address best practices on integrating technology into the curriculum and classroom. The course will assist students in developing a working knowledge of educational technology standards and pedagogy, proficiency with fundamental technology tools, and the ability to apply them to the classroom. Students will have opportunity to evaluate and reflect on professional practice to make informed decisions regarding the use of technology in support of student learning, access resources to help address instructional challenges, and evaluate the validity of those resources to meet student learning needs.

EDU 5100 FOUNDATIONS OF JEWISH EDUCATION 3 credits
This course will cover the philosophy and history of general and Jewish education as well as its psychological and socio-cultural foundations. Students will be invited to rethink assumptions, consider divergent points of view, and engage in informed reflection and critical thinking about the nature and purpose of learning and teaching in Jewish contexts.

EDU 5000 LEARNING AND COGNITION 3 credits
This course will examine student thinking and learning through the perspectives of cognitive and learning science. It will include an introduction to cognitive science focusing on representations used to model student knowledge and thinking, and how these can be used to describe student learning over the short- and long-term. Finally, we will focus on how these representations of knowledge and learning can enhance teaching practice in classroom settings.
EDU 5120 MODELS OF TEACHING 3 credits
This course integrates three major components of effective classroom pedagogy: instructional strategies, behavior management strategies and instructional design strategies.

EDU 5130 MODELS OF TEACHING II 3 credits
Models 2 is a framework of thinking about and learning with all students by matching learner to learning through proactive planning, multiple approaches (more qualitative than quantitative in nature) to content, process, product, and environment, and a blend of whole-class, group and independent learning. This course will focus on the knowledge, understanding, and skill related to differentiated instruction, including planning for and managing classrooms with diverse students (classroom management techniques). We will concentrate on the process of instruction and assessment and methods for using the classroom environment effectively and efficiently.
Pre-requisite: EDU 5120: Models of Teaching.

EDU 5700 PORTFOLIO 0 credit
Taken in the last semester before graduation, the student is required to submit a Professional Portfolio demonstrating knowledge, skills, and dispositions of a Jewish educator.

EDU 5141 PROBLEM BASED LEARNING 3 credits
Principles, techniques, and materials of teaching Judaic studies subjects using problem and project based learning. Students will learn the theoretical foundations of PBL, as well as the hands-on skills necessary to implement a PBL curriculum in Jewish day schools.

EDU 5551 (Elementary) JED 5651 (Secondary) PROFESSIONAL ENHANCEMENT PRACTICUM (PEP I) 3 credits
The PEP (student teaching) experience serves as the culminating expression of what students have learned in their coursework and in actual teaching, integrating theory, research, and practice. PEP is a 6-credit practicum that extends over the course of the full academic year (3 credits each semester). PEP I includes a seminar course that meets weekly on Wednesdays, 6:00 – 7:50 p.m. Students should reserve this time and not take on a work assignment that will prevent attendance in this seminar. The course requires that students serve as head teacher, assistant teacher, or intern in a formal Jewish educational setting.

EDU 5552 (Elementary) JED 5652 (Secondary) PROFESSIONAL ENHANCEMENT PRACTICUM (PEP II) 3 credits
The PEP (student teaching) experience serves as the capstone culminating expression of what students have learned in their coursework and in actual teaching, integrating theory, research, and practice. PEP is a 6-credit practicum that extends over the course of the full academic year (3 credits each semester). The course requires that students serve as head teacher, assistant teacher, or intern in a formal Jewish educational setting.

EDU 5070 PROMOTING JEWISH VALUES 3 credits
A practical approach to the field of moral and spiritual development and values education, informed by psychological theory and Jewish thought. The major focus is on educational applications of new research in spiritual development in children and adolescents, and the field of positive psychology – an emerging science that focuses on understanding such positive traits as forgiveness, gratitude and happiness. Each topic is presented in the context of recent research, Judaic perspectives, and their implications for educators working in Jewish schools.

EDU 5200 TEACHING BIBLE: CHUMASH 3 credits
Principles, techniques, and materials of teaching Bible in Jewish day schools; trends and approaches in teaching Bible; relevance of the Bible in modern society. Analysis of student motivation, learning styles and development, and the selection of appropriate texts and commentaries. Pre-requisite: EDU 5120: Models of Teaching.

EDU 5210 TEACHING BIBLE: THE PROPHETS 3 credits
Maximizing the use of Nevi’im Rishonim (in elementary school) and Nevi’im Aharonim (in secondary school) as educational resources through the analysis of student motivation, learning styles and development, and the selection of appropriate texts and commentaries. Various instructional and assessment modalities are analyzed.

and emotional phenomena; techniques for assessment and remediation of issues that compromise students’ success; understanding the demands of Jewish studies curricula and how it can best be offered to meet the needs of these diverse learners.

EDU 5250 WORKSHOP IN INFORMAL JEWISH EDUCATION 3 credits
This course will examine the underlying theories and methodologies, as well as practical application, of informal Jewish educational principles and techniques, including psycho-educational perspectives underlying informal education, and student-centered active learning processes. Effective communication, drama, film and other multi-media procedures and programming materials will be considered, along with leadership training and halachik dimensions of outreach work. Pre-requisite: EDU 5120: Models of Teaching.

EDU 5302 TEACHING LITERACY 3 credits
This course examines the nature of reading and writing. Consideration is given to the acquisition and role of language (first and second) and to the emerging intellectual and emotional needs of children, particularly within a Jewish community. We will study the facts and misconceptions concerning language learning, literacy development as it relates to bilingualism, various approaches to reading and writing instruction, assessment of reading and writing, and interventions for “at-risk” readers. The role of the teacher, the physical and emotional environment of the classroom and the nature of the curriculum will be explored. Students will examine and evaluate materials and methods of teaching. The course will include study and discussion of relevant theory and research as well as practical application of concepts. Each student will work individually with a child, observing, trying out methods and materials, and developing first hand awareness of the reading and writing process, especially the role of the teacher and child in that process.

EDU 5816 SEMINAR IN CONTEMPORARY JEWISH EDUCATION 3 credits
This course will provide an overview of many of the big ideas in education and Jewish education. They will explore the theory and practice of teaching and learning, as well as explore some particular areas of concern and focus for Jewish educators. Practical applications will include data-informed practice, addressing the needs of diverse learners, working with students’ families, the impact of community challenges on schools such as substance abuse, divorce and youth at-risk behavior. Throughout the semester, Big Ideas Book Club sessions will offer the opportunity to integrate theory and practice.
