

COVID-19 CODE OF BEHAVIOR

Yeshiva University

GENERAL

Faculty, students, and staff at Yeshiva University value community and seek to affirm and protect each member's right to a healthy, safe, and secure environment. Wearing a mask, washing hands, and practicing social distancing are just some of the measures that we take to safeguard ourselves and those around us. Out of an abundance of care for ourselves and for others, we adhere to safety guidelines of Yeshiva University so that we contribute to an ethical environment that, according to Jewish tradition and Torah values, places the sanctity and preservation of life as a primary value.

This COVID-19 Code of Behavior may be amended from time to time based on changing public health guidelines, the course of the pandemic, advances in scientific knowledge, and the University's assessment of what is required to protect the community.

COVID-19 presents a serious threat to public health and safety. The University has taken specific steps to help mitigate the risks. Among them is the adoption of a COVID-19 Code of Behavior intended to protect the health and safety of the YU community. Faculty, students and staff who do not adhere to this Code of Behavior will be required to leave the campus immediately and will be subject to other disciplinary actions under applicable University policies, up to and including expulsion or termination of employment.

EXPECTED BEHAVIORS

Yeshiva University expects each member of its community to comply with the following:

- Abide by University protocols regarding the screening of daily symptoms through the University's mobile screening tool and temperature taking
- Participate in all COVID-19 testing required by the University
- Follow all medical guidance and directions from the University's Medical Director and other health professionals
- Cooperate with the University's COVID-19 Coordinating Team and applicable government contact tracers
- Follow applicable government isolation and quarantine protocols (including NYS' travel advisory)
- Practice good personal hygiene, on and off campus, including:

Maintaining 6 feet of physical distancing between yourself and any other person

Frequent hand washing for at least twenty seconds

Frequent use of hand sanitizers

Wearing a face mask/covering over your nose and mouth at all times except when alone in a room (or with family members), or when eating/drinking or outdoors with at least 6 feet of physical distancing

- Follow all public health guidance regarding the need to get the seasonal influenza vaccine
- Abide by all University rules regarding access to campus buildings, and gatherings and seating in those buildings
- Abide by any additional measures adopted by the University relevant to public health and safety, such as student codes of conduct, housing rules and human resources policies
- Participate in any required educational sessions relating to campus health and safety rules