Description

The McSilver Institute at New York University is looking to hire a full-time clinician for the randomized controlled trial: "Treating Maternal PTSD to Enhance Parenting and Reduce Maltreatment Recidivism: Safe Mothers, Safe Children (SMSC)." This study, an exciting collaboration between the Administration for Child Services and NYU, aims to improve the identification and treatment of mothers with trauma-related disorders who are raising young children, and receiving child welfare preventive services to reduce the risk of repeat maltreatment and improve positive parenting.

We are currently recruiting for a full-time, bilingual study clinician to deliver an evidence-based mental health treatment for mothers in preventive services with histories of trauma/PTSD. Responsibilities for this position will include, but not be limited to:

- Perform clinical assessments
- Deliver manualized mental health intervention in child welfare settings
- Coordinate intervention delivery with research staff, agency staff, and clients
- Ensure fidelity of intervention and client engagement
- Maintain session notes and weekly activities
- Participate in staff meetings and case discussions
- Obtain informed consent, assess study inclusion and exclusion criteria
- Provide technical assistance and training to staff from contract agencies
- Assist with database management and data analysis, as needed
- Assist with reports, manuscripts and presentations

Qualifications:

- LMSW, LCSW, PhD, or PsyD licensed or license eligible in the state of New York
- Minimum 3 years of clinical experience providing evidence based clinical interventions

- Bilingual (English-Spanish), required
- Experience with research, project management, and collection of research assessments is a plus
- Knowledge of evidence-based trauma interventions and child welfare
- Willingness to travel to the agency sites
- Excellent interpersonal, organizational, and teamwork skills
