Promotion and Compensation Guidelines for Yeshiva University Faculty
February 2021

The Yeshiva University Faculty Handbook stipulates promotion processes for both tenure track and non-tenure track faculty members. This companion policy compliments the Handbook and provides a uniform and consistent standard for the added compensation full-time faculty members receive when they advance from one stage of the promotion ladder to another.

While all Yeshiva University faculty, regardless of rank, play the most essential role in the institution, this policy focuses on full-time faculty and the contributions they make to the mission and reputation of the University.

In recognition of their service, tenure system faculty will receive a salary increase that will either be $10,000 or 10% of one's base salary (whichever is greater) when:

- Awarded tenure and promotion to Associate Professor or Professor of Law
- Awarded tenure as Associate Professor
- Promoted from tenured Associate to tenured Full Professor

The Provost’s Office, working with the Finance and Human Resources Offices, will take responsibility for ensuring that the additional compensation is recorded.
