Introduction: What is a Portfolio?

A professional portfolio from the Azrieli Graduate School for Jewish Education and Administration is an online, clearly organized, attractive collection of artifacts and reflections documenting a candidate’s achievements over the course of teacher preparation here. The artifacts may include letters from parents and administrators, lesson plans and student work samples, and photographs of you and your students engaged in active learning. You will include also a brief video that documents your teaching and provides evidence of your Judaic content knowledge, your pedagogic knowledge and skills, your professional dispositions, and your students’ engagement and learning. The written reflections on each artifact illustrate your growth as a thoughtful practitioner, willing and able to analyze and critique your practice. The process of putting together an online portfolio allows you to choose how to present your talents and achievements most effectively.

Compiling a Portfolio: When, What, and How?

When?

You should develop your portfolio throughout your year of student teaching. You must register for portfolio when you enroll in your final semester at Azrieli.

What?

The following components comprise the portfolio:

- An introduction, explaining its purpose and how to navigate the site.
- A philosophy statement (two pages)
- Seven (7) artifacts:
  - One 5--7-minute video of your teaching demonstrating at least two aspects of your knowledge, skills, and dispositions;
  - two artifacts that further demonstrate Judaic content knowledge;
  - two that further demonstrate pedagogic content knowledge and skills;
  - two that further demonstrate some of the dispositions necessary for successful teaching. These include:
    - respect and affection for students;
    - appreciation and knowledge of students;
    - empathy and ability to listen;
    - energy, passion, and resilience;
    - warmth and kindness;
    - patience and perseverance;
    - flexibility and discipline;
    - willingness to learn and accept critiques;
    - professionalism in dress and demeanor;
    - commitment to ongoing learning; and
    - the ability and commitment to serve as a role model;
  - seven (7) brief written reflections on each artifact;
  - an up-to-date resume;
  - a concluding or summary statement.
What is an artifact?
For the purpose of this portfolio, an artifact is any item that illustrates your skills, knowledge, dispositions, growth, and professionalism. Artifacts may be daily or unit plans; class activities or assessments; photos; student work; and administrative, parental, or community feedback, etc., gathered from your school environment.

What is a reflection?
A reflection is a paragraph explaining how each artifact reflects your growth, the value of your AGS coursework, and your attainment of one or more of the AGS goals. As you write, consider: How does each artifact offer evidence of learning and of professional competence?

The artifacts and reflections should demonstrate that you have absorbed from your Azrieli classes the key knowledge, skills, and dispositions necessary to become a successful educator. They should clearly illustrate your attainment of the following AGS goals:

1. Graduates will display competence in the development and delivery of Jewish studies curricula in such areas as Bible, Talmud, prayer, and Jewish history.
2. Graduates will display an understanding of and commitment to Jewish traditions and values relevant to their current teaching position.
3. Graduates will display competence in classroom procedures and management techniques and strategies appropriate to their chosen grade levels.
4. Graduates will display commitment to, and competence in, pedagogy that promotes interactive engagement in a safe, student-centered learning environment.
5. Graduates will display competence in the use of formative and summative learning assessments in their chosen areas of expertise.
6. Graduates will display understanding and acceptance of varied learning styles and competence in the delivery of differentiated instruction in their subject area(s).
7. Graduates will display competence in and commitment to the use of appropriate technologies in the delivery of their chosen subject area(s).
8. Graduates will display dispositions necessary for successful teaching, which include respect and affection for students; appreciation and knowledge of students; empathy and ability to listen and to reflect; ability to accept critique of practice and to change as necessary; flexibility and self-discipline; energy, passion, and resilience; warmth and kindness; patience and perseverance; professionalism in demeanor and dress; the ability and commitment to serve as a role model; commitment to their faculty, students, and school community; and commitment to ongoing learning in the content and pedagogy of their chosen fields.

How?
Choose your artifacts: Review your work as a student teacher and include those pieces and activities that best illustrate your teaching competence and your commitment to and achievement of the Azrieli goals.

Reflect on your artifacts: How does each illustrate your growth as an educator? Reflections do not describe your artifact; they express your understanding and analysis of your teaching and your professional growth. Feel free to point out areas for further growth!
Demonstrate your teaching: To show that you are able to put your knowledge into practice, you must include a short (5--7-minute) video of your teaching that illustrates your mastery of at least four AGS goals, including your ability to manage a class and use appropriate instructional strategies; your mastery of the content and its delivery; and your ability to engage the class interactively and effectively. Reflect on the video:

- What might still need improvement?
- How does it highlight or illustrate your achievements?

Summary

Present your portfolio online: Your site should be attractive, well designed, organized, and easy to access. Two platforms you might use are Wix (http://www.wix.com/) and Weebly (http://www.weebly.com/). Any platform you choose must be easy to navigate.

- Begin with a home page that introduces the portfolio and provides clear instructions for navigation.
- Include a two-page reflective philosophy statement consistent with the artifacts you will include and with the AGS goals.
- Include your seven artifacts and related reflections.
  - Be sure your video is uploaded correctly.
- Include an attractive, up-to-date, accurate resume.
- Conclude with a final statement, a brief paragraph that sums up your AGS experience and how it has enabled you to begin to teach effectively and with confidence.

Of course, exemplary writing, with no grammatical, structural, mechanical, or spelling errors, is expected and required. Be sure to proofread and edit before submitting the portfolio.

The portfolio is a professional demonstration of your knowledge, skills, and dispositions. Your artifacts and reflections should illustrate your teaching growth, abilities, and achievements as set out in the AGS goals. They should provide evidence of sound content knowledge and pedagogy. They should show your best teacher self to the world.
