

The James Striar School of General Jewish Studies

The James Striar School is a comprehensive program for students seeking to improve and expand their skills and knowledge of Jewish studies on either the beginning or intermediate level. JSS is the only introductory Jewish studies program for college age students in the country designed to be taken simultaneously with a regular college program on the same campus. No matter what background they may have, all JSS students demonstrate an eagerness to grow in their commitment to “Jewish Living, Jewish Learning, and Jewish Leadership.”

The program teaches the fundamentals of Jewish scholarship and heritage through a unique curriculum and exciting out-of-classroom experiences. It offers courses in Hebrew language; Bible; Mishnah & Talmud; and Jewish History, Philosophy, Laws, & Customs. Rabbi Moshe Besdin zt”l, the founding director, sought to create an atmosphere dedicated to teaching “It, and not just about It” – i.e. to learn about Judaism in text and context, in thought and practice.

In addition to its small classes, the program pairs students with a member of the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary (RIETS) for regular study sessions. These study sessions help students gain textual skills in a relatively short amount of time. Furthermore, the program sponsors regular weekend retreats as well as field trips to enhance the academic and Jewish experiences of its members. In addition to formal classes, the program fosters close relationships between teachers and students through continuing individual guidance.

The James Striar School of General Jewish Studies was established in 1956 as the Jewish Studies Program and renamed in 1965 to honor the generosity of the Striar family in memory of their father, James Striar. Its location at the Wilf Campus affords stimulating interactions with the university’s other undergraduate schools as well as graduate schools and affiliates, and provides easy access to the major resources of the Institution.

Students who complete the requirements are eligible to receive an Associate in Arts degree.

ADMISSION

Applicants are interviewed by the dean or the director of the program in order to provide an opportunity to evaluate the applicant’s background in Jewish studies and to discuss the student’s program and course of study. Students wishing to enter the program must demonstrate an interest in Jewish studies, a respect for Yeshiva University’s distinctive history and tradition, and an ability to learn Jewish texts.

STUDENT ADVISEMENT

The James Striar School feels that the key to a successful Torah learning experience is creating a warm relationship between a teacher and his student. To help create this bond, each student is guided toward an individualized course of study.

Prior to each registration each student meets with the director, who evaluates the skills and interests of the student and then pairs the student with the teachers who might be the best fit for that student. Class sizes are kept small and intimate. Teachers make themselves available to serve as advisers on an ongoing basis. Most teachers share their home phone numbers and cell phone numbers with their students. Teachers treat their students with respect, concern, and regard. Many Yeshiva faculty members live on campus and open their homes on a regular basis to host the students in the program. The regular off-campus weekend retreats also provide many opportunities for students to learn from their teachers and friends in a relaxed and comfortable atmosphere.

REQUIRED COURSES

Students must register for at least 17 credit hours within the program each semester. The cumulative index of these courses will transfer as 3 HES credits in the student's college record. If a student registers for 19 credit hours in a semester, the courses can transfer as 4 HES credits.

- Tanakh (Bible) — four courses.
- Hebrew language — two courses: 1203, 1204. Some students may place into 1101 or 1102 before they can begin 1203. Students who demonstrate Hebrew proficiency are exempted from this requirement.
- Jewish History — two courses from separate time periods.
- Jewish Studies — six courses from Jewish Philosophy/Thought, Judaic Studies and/or Talmud.

SCHOOL REGULATIONS

Attendance: Students are expected to attend all their scheduled class sessions and to be present promptly at the beginning of the class, unless prevented from doing so by illness or other compelling cause. A record of each student's class attendance is kept by the instructor. In courses that meet twice a week, a student's grade may be reduced by the instructor if the student has more than four unexcused absences over the course of the semester. For courses that meet four times a week, the final grade may be reduced after eight unexcused absences.

The James Striar School expends significant effort and resources on out-of-classroom educational experiences. Students are expected to attend the periodic field trips and at least one off-campus Shabbaton each semester.

A student's attendance record may be taken into account when determining his continuing status in the program. Continued unexcused absences of more than 50% of the scheduled sessions will result in the student receiving a grade of a G for the course, which may lead to probation or academic dismissal from the school.

Permission to register late in a course does not in itself excuse the student's absence from classes already held. Students who register late for a course are responsible to for any material they missed.

Probation: Students that do not maintain a GPA above 2.000 will be placed on probation for the next academic semester. Students on full academic probation are limited to 12 credits in Yeshiva College or Sy Syms. Other restrictions follow those of the undergraduate schools as noted in the catalog.

Students with two consecutive semesters or three semesters overall of work below a 2.000 are subject to dismissal from the school. Students must show positive progression through the program and cannot graduate if in their last semester they receive less than a 2.000 GPA.

ETHICS AND SCHOLARSHIP

Faculty and students alike seek to create an atmosphere that provides and promotes the highest standards of ethical conduct and scholarship in the achievement of personal and professional goals. All rules and procedures delineated in the academic integrity policy on cheating and plagiarism apply to students in undergraduate Torah studies courses.
